

WORLD'S SECRETS NOT ALL KNOWN

Apostle Whitney Explains the Fallibility of Historical Writings.

HEAVEN AND HELL REAL

POINTS OUT DESTINY OF RIGHT-EOUS AND SINNERS.

"There are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in human philosophy," quoted Orson F. Whitney at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon, repeating the words which Shakespeare made Hamlet utter to his friend Horatio. Mr. Whitney referred to an editorial in The Herald-Republican of Sept. 12, entitled "A Topsy Turvy World," basing his address on the thought in this editorial asking whether or not there was a big volume of information about this world that was still sealed.

From this editorial Mr. Whitney read: "Some of the professors of Cornell university are hunting for whatever may be interesting in Alaska, and have found that much of the vegetable product of the tropics once grew in that sun-forsaken country. Preserved in rock and soil, there are palms and ferns and soft wood growths which never grew except where the torrid heat prevails. They say it proves that tropical conditions once prevailed at Nome."

Topsy-Turvy World.

"This must be a topsy-turvy world. How could the flora of the torrid zone have been moved to the Arctic circle? There is a problem which it will take Cornell university a long time to explain."

"Some men say the whole polar circle bears evidence of having at one time been under the immediate and intense influence of the sun. Some have declared until very lately that if the north pole ever were discovered, it would be found to present conditions favorable to gentle animal life. And they were educated men, too."

"Is there a big volume of information about this old world still sealed? Are we people who inhabit the globe to find presently that we know little or nothing of its history? Or shall we go through to the end with these disturbing evidences, and never get the truth about the very earth on which we live?"

History Insufficient.

Mr. Whitney said he was not prepared to enter into any geological discussion regarding the subject of the editorial, but he would undertake a spiritual discussion of the thought presented. He said he had been thinking that if no better record could have been made of the history of the world than that which man has made for himself it would be sadly lacking in accuracy and detail.

In this connection the speaker related instances where human testimony on incidents might differ widely, although the witnesses were honest in their statements and to tell what actually happened. He said it was the same with newspaper reporters, most of whom gave credit to the honesty and honesty of purpose in their business of writing events as they happened. Most reporters, he said, sought to give clear and truthful accounts, but back of their efforts was the policy of the paper, which brought about the distortion or elimination of facts which made the accounts unreliable. The same conditions were true of history, he said, quoting Napoleon as asking the question: "What is history but what we agree that it shall be?"

He said that Napoleon, after his battles or campaigns, would take his soldiers together and their united opinion was what went down as history. Napoleon's reports to Paris were not always correct, and what really happened, but rather, they were accounts which Napoleon wished the public to believe happened. Napoleon, he said, was not above making "mistakes" of that kind in reporting his triumphs or defeats.

The Bible itself, Mr. Whitney said, was only a fragment of ancient history and the Book of Mormon was avowedly only an abridgment. Although these were not abridgments, he said the Mormons accepted them as the word and work of God so far as correctly translated, and well might the able writer of the editorial referred to ask the question: "Or shall we go through to the end with these disturbing evidences, and never get the truth about the very earth on which we live?"

Newspaper's Wifely Error.

Speaking from his personal experience, Mr. Whitney said the best source of information for history was the depositions published at the time, but even these were not infallible. Newspapers, he said, owing to the rush of their publication and the impossibility of confirming every feature, were sometimes inaccurate, but this was only when the mistakes were made wifely.

As an example, Mr. Whitney said he read recently an account of the murder of Joseph Smith, which said the murderers were some of the church leaders' brethren, who disguised themselves by blackening their faces. Then he reviewed the account of the affair at the Carthage jail written by the late John H. Pelt, who was the secretary of state, fixing the responsibility on a mob under the guise of militia and led by Col. Levi Williams.

Mr. Whitney related an instance, while he was writing the history of Utah, when a pioneer asserted that he had brought the first cow across the plains. This cow, the pioneer said, was the only one which was brought with the original band, and he produced a memorandum written some years later as evidence. Mr. Whitney said he consulted the daily journals written by the historians of the party, which showed there were 143 men, three women, two children and a number of animals, including 19 cows.

"We do not know enough to judge each other, and there is only one Being who can judge us and who can be just as well as merciful, and, thank God, it is at His bar that we must all finally appear," said Mr. Whitney.

The passages in the Book of Revelations relating to the vision of John on the Isle of Patmos were read and interpreted according to the Mormon belief. Mr. Whitney said the seven seals on the Book of Life referred by John to the seven ages of the world, and his belief was that this world was the seventh, the dawning of the last great period, or the millennium, when God should reign in truth, and peace and righteousness should overspread the world. He said some of the things predicted for this era had already taken place.

Gospel of Church.

The gospel of the church was not simply a gospel of salvation, but it was a gospel of exaltation, and he believed that accepting a very few would eventually be saved, these few being the sons of perdition, who could not repent of their sins to contemplate that view.

"In My Father's house are many mansions, and I go to prepare a place for you that where I am there ye may be also," quoted Mr. Whitney. This prophecy, he said, bore out the Mormon belief that there were several degrees of salvation corresponding in brilliancy to that of the sun, the moon and the stars. The celestial glory, which meant admission to the actual presence of God, he said, was reserved for those who complied with God's plan of salvation, as understood by the Mormon church here on earth. The terrestrial glory or heaven was that attained by those who received their salvation in the life to come, and the celestial heaven was for those who had been thrust into hell and afterwards released.

Heaven and hell, he said, were conditions of a man's mind, heaven being where God dwells and hell where God was not. He said hell and heaven were also places as well as conditions.

"OPINION" IS BUT HISTORY OF CASE

City Attorney Will Give Council Just What Is Requested.

TO CONSIDER FRANCHISE

BODY MAY TURN DEAF EAR TO PLEA OF PEOPLE.

When the city council goes into session tonight a few of the solons will be surprised at the "opinion" from City Attorney H. J. Dinwiddie regarding the slot machine cases. This was asked by the council last Monday night, through a resolution introduced by Councilman F. S. Fernstrom. The council thought it would get something in the shape of an opinion from the city attorney, but he has sent in just what they asked for and nothing more.

"It isn't an opinion at all," said Dinwiddie yesterday. "The council didn't ask me for any, and haven't given them one. My letter to the council is rather long and gives a history of the machine cases—just what they called for. They asked if the ruling of Justice of the Peace Stanley Hanks overruled that of Judge Armstrong, and, of course, I will tell them that it does not. But it isn't an opinion—simply a history of the case."

Councilman Fernstrom thinks he is going to get an opinion from the city attorney regarding the matter. The councilman from the Third ward said that much of his fight in the future on the slot machine cases depended upon the letter from the city attorney. If the city attorney says the slot machines are being run contrary to the law, Mr. Fernstrom says, the letter will be sent to the chief of police, if he can send it there. If not, then he will go after the city attorney.

Franchise May Appear.

The vetoed franchise of the Oregon Short Line will come before the council tonight. It was passed last Monday night, but vetoed by Mayor John S. Bransford because the franchise, as written in the city attorney's office, does not coincide with the blueprint submitted by the railroad company and approved by the council. The franchise would give the mayor in the matter and send the franchise back to the city attorney to be drawn up anew and framed according to the blueprint.

In spite of the many claims from residents near the South and Eighth West streets, it is likely that the city council will turn a deaf ear to these if they are brought out tonight. The claims committee does not care to approve any of them, though all of the claimants put in an appearance last Thursday night on the matter. The claims are a result of the breaking of the thin north wall of the Tenth South street canal, which was constructed by the city several years ago. The bank broke with the floods of last spring and since then the neighborhood has suffered badly as a result. They want some money for their damages and also ask that the city build up the north bank of the canal to guard against a recurrence of the floods.

It is claimed that suits will be filed against the city in case the council refuses to pay any of the claims.

OFFICERS CHOSEN BY B'NAI ISRAEL

Rabbi Charles J. Freund Is Elected and Directors Are Named.

The congregation of Temple B'nai Israel, in accordance with custom long established, held its annual election at a meeting yesterday at the Temple B'nai Israel in Fourth East street, between Second and Third South streets. Rabbi Charles J. Freund was re-elected for a term of two years, beginning in December of this year.

In addition to the election of Rabbi Freund, the following other officers were elected by the congregation to serve during the ensuing year: Henry Cohn, president; William Graupe, Jacob Kahn, David Spitz, Dr. Theodore Meyers, H. Barnett, Leon Sweet, directors.

The annual elections of Jewish congregations are always held immediately following Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, and the election yesterday was in keeping with that custom.

Yom Kippur, the Jewish day of atonement, begins Friday night at 6 o'clock and extends until Saturday night at 6 o'clock. This is the time of memorial services for the dead. No fires will be kindled in Jewish households during that time and the day will be religiously observed with all its accustomed solemnity. The spirit of forgiveness will prevail and the new year will be commenced anew.

DRILL FOR LIVING FLAG.

Children to Meet for First Rehearsal This Afternoon.

Children who are to take part in the "Living Flag" spectacle in honor of the visit of President William H. Taft next Sunday will meet for their first drill since G. A. R. week in the Assembly hall in the tabernacle grounds this afternoon at 6 o'clock. The committee in charge is composed of Supervisors John S. Welch and William A. Wetzel, and Proprietor Alfred A. Chayton. The hour set will enable the children to have just about time enough to get home from school, collect their dresses, stars, flags and other articles used in the spectacle, and then get to the hall. It is probable another meeting of the children will be held later in the week to make final plans for the exhibition at Brigham and B streets next Sunday morning.

MAY OPEN CONDUIT BIDS.

Board of Public Works Will Make Another Effort.

Another effort will be made today to hold a meeting of the board of public works to open bids for the concrete conduits to cover the intersections of North Temple street and First and Second West and Second West streets.

The conduits will be a part of the proposed conduit from State street to the Jordan river to carry off the City creek water. Two bids have been received, from Zerbe & Walker and from McKay & Read, two local contractors.

Two efforts have already been made to hold a meeting for the purpose of opening the bids, and it is believed that the third time will work the charm. The meeting may be held until next Friday night.

Take a little trip today in answer to a want ad—and it may be a "lucky day" for you.

THIRD WARD TO GO REPUBLICAN

Democrats See Failure Ahead and Will Scarcely Be in Fight.

COUNCILMEN FAILURES

FIGHT IN WARD CONVENTION PREVENTS UNITED ACTION.

Indications are that the Third municipal ward, which returned a handsome Republican majority at the county election last fall will continue in the Republican ranks at the coming city election. The contest in this ward during the city election will be between the American party and the Republican party, with every indication of Republican success.

The Democrats have hitherto always elected their candidates for council from this ward, but this year they are hopelessly out of the fight. In the mass ward convention called to nominate the candidates for the council so much bitterness was engendered that there is now no possibility of united action by that party. After two candidates had been nominated by the convention the remnants of the Democratic ward machine were dissatisfied and finally forced the convention to accept their candidates and to reject the candidate who was legally chosen by them.

The fight has not yet been settled and the insurgent Democrats in this ward will carry the controversy to the courts and whichever side loses is sure to bolt.

The Democratic candidates in the city council from this ward have been unsatisfactory to the people of the ward including the Democrats. In spite of the fact that all three Democratic members of the council from the Third ward have been voting with the American majority they have been unable to do anything for the ward they represent. Thousands of dollars were spent extravagantly in the alleged improvement of the drains on the west side and particularly in the Third ward and yet last spring the water was higher than ever in the yards of the residents of this ward.

Fernstrom Bolts.

Councilman F. S. Fernstrom, for years the Democratic ward leader, foreseeing the dissolution of the Democratic party has bolted to the Citizens party. Councilman John Holley, after being defeated for the renomination to the council on the Democratic ticket, finally captured it and is now retaining a precarious hold on the ticket, though at any time he may be taken off by the courts. Councilman H. T. Cowburn was defeated in the contest for the renomination and in running for the renomination received only five votes. During his term in the council he was a member of the American-Moran coalition. He was the sole member of the minority who voted for the confirmation of George Sheets, appointment as chief of detectives and his vote was the deciding one. Had it not been for Cowburn the "hero" of the McWhorter robbery would have been reinstated on the police force.

The Citizens ticket, too, is unsatisfactory. G. A. Bachman, who heads the councilmanic ticket of the Citizens party in this ward has been at various times a Democrat, a Republican and now a member of the Citizens party.

In a quiet way the Americans have been working hard to capture this ward at the coming election. They are planning on nominating E. A. Boyd and Daniel Wolstenholme for the council and are hoping that the Democratic and Citizens ticket will poll enough votes to enable them to elect their candidates from this ward with the ease with which they have done so in the past.

There are a number of candidates spoken of for the Republican nomination from the Third, any of whom is much stronger than the candidates of the other parties. Among the Republicans mentioned for the council are this ward are Thomas A. Callister and E. F. Parry.

WOMEN'S CLUBS PLAN WELCOME

Members Arranging to Entertain Delegates to State Convention.

Women's clubs of the city affiliated with the State Federation of Women's clubs, the state convention of which will be held here Oct. 7, 8 and 9, are making preparations for the entertainment of the delegates from outside cities and towns.

For the most part, the clubs have been taking a vacation during the summer months and the early part of September, but are now out with announcements of the commencement of the fall and winter sessions. Special meetings are also to be called for the purpose of arranging plans of entertainment for the visiting delegates to the state convention.

The executive committee of the Women's league will meet today at the apartments of Mrs. C. H. McMahon, president of the league, in the Calhoun apartments. At that meeting the work for the season will be outlined and plans for the entertainment of visiting delegates will be discussed informally.

The Women's league is a purely philanthropic organization, and various matters will be taken up in an endeavor to improve local conditions wherever philanthropy plays its part.

New Drugless Method Is a Great Boon to Weak Women

The dread of drugs, operations and other disagreeable means used so commonly in the treatment of disease, has been the means of causing hundreds of women to decide to suffer in silence rather than submit to the things that are distasteful to them.

Such a course is not at all natural. A person who suffers should seek relief, even though the cure is, for the time, not exactly agreeable. A scientific discovery of comparatively recent date, however, removes all necessity for submitting to either drugs or instruments in the cure of the majority of diseases.

Chiropractic is a natural cure, and when once the principles are explained to you, the effectiveness of the treatments will be at once apparent. Without taking medicine of any kind, without submitting to any sort of operation, without interference in any way with your business or pleasure, except the time you spend here, and without inconvenience of any kind, you may be cured of any nervous disorder, stomach, liver or kidney trouble, paralysis, rheumatism, female troubles or any similar disorders.

Now if you are a sufferer you should certainly be willing to put a few minutes of your time against the same amount of Mrs. Pickard's time for a free examination and consultation. It may mean the breaking of your life, and if you take the treatments it will certainly result in the removal of the cause of your suffering.

Office Hours: 9 to 12, and 2 to 5, daily.

INFORMATION FOR BIDDERS.

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR THE erection of a state fish hatchery and brick cottage to be erected at Spring Creek, between Springville and Provo, Utah, will be received at the office of the state game and fish commissioner, Salt Lake City, Utah, until September 27, 1909.

All proposals must be enclosed in sealed envelopes marked "Proposal for State Fish Hatchery and Brick Cottage," and these envelopes must be in another envelope and addressed to the office of the state game and fish commissioner. Plans and specifications can be seen at the state fish and game commissioner's office, Dooly block, fifth floor.

Each bid is to be signed by the executive officer of the firm or corporation submitting the bid, and the full address of each firm or corporation submitting a bid shall accompany the same.

No change or explanations of bids shall be allowed after they are submitted nor will any suggestions of a change or modification be considered. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

Transfers of contract are prohibited, and no portion of the work shall be sublet without written permission from the aforesaid commissioner's office or his duly authorized architect.

Reasonable and proper specifications can be seen at the state fish and game commissioner's office, Dooly block, fifth floor.

If the bidder to whom the first award is made fails to enter into a contract as here provided, then the contract may be annulled and the contract let to the next most desirable bidder, and such bidder shall be required to fulfill every stipulation embraced herein as if he were the original party to whom the contract was awarded.

Before presenting his proposal, each bidder is recommended to go through his authorized representative, to visit the ground and thoroughly acquaint himself with the existing conditions.

Each bidder will stipulate in his bid that he will complete the work, as time, as well as cost, will be an essential element in determining whose bid shall be accepted.

The above instructions are to be construed with and made a part of the contract.

Note—Separate bids will be received for a brick cottage, according to plans and specifications, in connection with bid on these specifications and plans, which is a two-million capacity hatchery.

Also for the same brick cottage and present plans of hatchery enlarged to four millions capacity, by making the building ninety-one feet long instead of fifty-one feet, the same conditions, such as windows, doors, ceiling, roof, floor, etc., shall exist as are shown on plan.

Assessment No. 7.

SHEBA GOLD AND SILVER MINING Company of Utah. Principal place of business, Salt Lake City, Utah. Eastern or branch office, Houghton, Mich. Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the board of directors of the Sheba Gold and Silver Mining company, held on the 27th day of August, 1909, assessment No. 7 of five (5) cents per share was levied upon the capital stock of that corporation, issued and outstanding, payable immediately to the secretary of the company, at the office of the company, 43 Judge building, Salt Lake City, Utah, or at the eastern or branch office of the company, at Houghton, Mich., at the option of the stockholders as to (either) place of payment. Any stock upon which this assessment may remain unpaid on Thursday the 28th day of September, 1909, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before, will be sold on Thursday the 28th day of October, 1909, at 10 a. m., at the office of the company at Salt Lake City, Utah, to pay the delinquent assessment thereon together with the costs of advertising (50 cents for each certificate advertised) and expenses of sale.

By order of the board of directors,
ERNEST J. DUBE, Secretary,
Houghton, Mich.
